INCREASING TREND IN SHORT-TERM COURSES

There has been a recent increase in institutions accepting short-term placements for individuals and groups. Stays of 1 or 2 weeks, half a term, a full term or 1 year are all popular options.

Whilst some of the students are here to trial UK life with the aim to extend for long-term study, it is the benefit for the domestic students which is proving most appealing to host schools.

Domestic students can build an international network, have a more global outlook and are able to practice their foreign language skills too.
